Tony:

Per your request to ascertain whether or not FBIS, OSO, and NPIC would take up the responsibility for the ~~351~~ series of Intelligence Information Reports now being provided by OCR -- the answer is yes.

I checked with the respective RMO's regarding OCR's decision to relinquish its reference & office of record responsibilities for these reports come the advent of ADSTAR and the following responses were received:

- a. OSO still produces the ELE's, ELC's, and the ELQ's. The amount is minimal. They do consider themselves as the Office of Record and they presently keep a permanent copy of each report produced and will continue to do so. If OCR cannot provide reference service once the initial dissemination has been made they will take on the responsibility. The Collection Analysis Support Division (CASD) is the responsible component within OSO for this material.
- b. NPIC still produces the GPIR. They consider themselves as the Office of Record and their views reflect those of OSO's. The Ground Photography Branch is responsible for this report.
- c. FBIS still produces the FB. They also consider themselves as the Office of Record and if it is not possible for OCR to provide reference service they would assume the responsibility. FBIS will provide a copy for permanent retention.
